MRS. WILSON AND DAUGHTERS DELIGHT

Governor Woodrow Wilson
Charming Daughters
Busy Young Women--
Jessie Wilson Has Specialized Settlement Work--Moderate A Politician.

ELDEST DAUGHTER SINGS

Seagirt, N. J. June 29.—The Governor went automobiling after luncheon with Mrs. Wilson, and he did not return until after the second ball had been taken and the result sent out. Tumulty and the other secretaries stood anxiously in the doorway of the executive office with the paper which told of the slight gain, but before he came forward to learn about it the Governor stopped to chat on the lawn with the Rev. Mr. Taylor of East Orange, who was strolling by with his family. They were the only visitors at the Little White House during the day. Then the Governor stopped on his way up the walk while the battalions of photographers which turned up in the afternoon snapped him. They also tried to have Mrs. Wilson and the three Misses Wilson come out for a group picture, but these independent young women declined.

They passed the afternoon playing tennis and if they were excited they did not show it. Miss Margaret Wilson, the eldest of the sisters, resembled her father very much, while Miss Jessie and Miss Eleanor have some of the features of their mother. All have a high sense of humor of the fatherly type. The mother is an artist, the three daughters are college women, the eldest is a trained singer, the second is specialized in settlement work and the youngest is attending an art school in Philadelphia. They are all fond of entertaining and of society.

Mrs. Wilson, everybody attending the official household declares, is the politician of the family. She is not to be wondered at in the company of any Southern woman. She knows about the details of the campaign and her husband. When they take the delegates and numbers she recognizes the figures and she recognizes the statesmen from the various parties.

Most disfiguring skin eruptions, such as scrofula, pimples, rashes, etc., are cured by Burdock Blood Purifiers as a cleansing blood tonic, is what is recommended. $1.00 at all stores.

Rid Yourself Of Unnecessary Burdens.

Don't bear unnecessary burdens. Burdens of a bad back are heavy. Get rid of them. Doan's Kidney Pills are for bad kidneys. For lame, weak and aching backs. Lots of grateful endorsement to prove their worth.

J. A. Baird, R. F. D. No. 5, Hartford, Ky., says: "I used only one box of Doan's Kidney Pills but that was all I needed to cure me of kidney weakness. For some time I had been troubled by sharp twinges across my loins and other symptoms of kidney complaint. As I heard Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended, I got a supply and their use cured me. I highly recommend this remedy."

A Floating Farm.

Jens Soeb's 'floating farm' is one of the sights of the Columbia River. All the buildings are supported by three rafts made of huge pine logs. Soeb, a veteran of the Spanish-American war, got the idea of a floating houseboat when traveling in China and Japan.

When he returned home after the war he built three rafts on the Columbia River and on these he erected a house and a warehouse to keep nets and boats, chicken pens, and so on. He also made a garden in which he raised enough vegetables for the use of his family.

Soeb's farm and inn, floating serenely on the water, soon became a favorite headquarters for fishing parties. Here they were housed and fed, says a writer in the Wide World, and at night Soeb would play his old violin for their entertainment. He also gave music lessons.

The "farm" was moored in front of the property of C. E. De Long, who charged Soeb fifty cents a month rental. When Soeb did not pay his rent for two years De Long secured a judgment and a writ of ejectment from the Judge of the Superior Court, but when the sheriff attempted to enforce the order the water was too low to move the rafts.

Recently, after a freshet the water rose, and George Johnson, deputy sheriff, was sent to remove Soeb's property. He hired a river steamer and crew of half a dozen men, pulled up the anchors of the rafts, and towed this unique floating habitation half a mile down

DIAMONDS

Still In Demand Despite The High Cost Of Living--Americans Buy Over Forty Millions Worth Of The Precious Stones.

That the desire of the American public for luxuries in the form of diamonds, pearls and other precious stones has not been checked by the advance in the cost of living during the fiscal year ended June 30 is shown by the fact that in that period diamonds, pearls and other gems to the value of $39,445,289 reached this country through the port of New York. This means that it took over $11,000,000 worth of gems to satisfy the demand of the people of this country for this form of luxury, since it is estimated that of the total gem importations into the United States 95 per cent. are brought in through the port of New York.

A review of the year shows that there has been only one official advance of 5 per cent. in the price of diamonds, but there have been other indirect advances in that time. Just at present there is little activity in the foreign centres, although conditions are better than during December and the early months of the present calendar year. A New York importer who returned from abroad last week reported that he has never experienced such difficulty in obtaining diamonds suitable for the American market.

Because of the scarcity of Oriental pearls there is a greater demand than ever for fine American pearls and pearl hunters along the Western rivers are now busily engaged in searching for pearl bearing mussels. Reports of a number of unusually valuable finds have already reached the New York markets, where most of the pearls taken from the Western rivers are eventually sold. Mussel shells which are used in the manufacture of buttons are now bringing $18 a ton.

Dysentery is always serious and often a dangerous disease, but it can be cured. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has cured it even when malignant and epidemic. For sale by all dealers.

Pugilist Is Near

Death After Fight.

Peoria, Ill., July 5.—Phil Harrison, a Chicago lightweight, is hovering between life and death in a hospital here as a result of injuries received in a ring battle with Harry Donohue, of Pekin, Thursday. The two men fought nine desperate rounds.

Up to the latter part of the eighth round Harrison had much the better of the fierce milling. Shortly after the opening of that round it is thought that Donohue caught Harrison a heavy blow behind the ear with his bare forearm. Harrison immediately became helpless, though he stood up under a terrible shower of blows. His seconds, seeing their man apparently helpless, threw a sponge into the ring, stopping the contest in the ninth round.

Harrison was carried to a bath-house near by, attended by only his seconds. He shortly began to sink. A physician was hastily called. He discovered a broken artery, with his patient near death. He was hastened to a hospital where desperate efforts are being made to save his life.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET

FOR PRESIDENT

WOODROW WILSON
of New Jersey

FOR VICE PRESIDENT

THOMAS R. MARSHALL

THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

The contest to select a nominee for President by the Democrats came to an end at Baltimore last week in the selection of Woodrow Wilson for that distinguished honor, and his running mate, Governor Marshall, of Indiana. In our opinion, it is the best ticket the Democrats have put out for president and Vice-President in twenty-five years. From the time Woodrow Wilson's name was mentioned for this great office many months ago, he has easily and distinctly been the favorite among Democrats. It has been so in Kentucky, notwithstanding the apparent popularity of Champ Clark. Thousands of Democrats in Kentucky have been silently, but zealously advocating the claims of Wilson, from the very moment his name came before the people.

It is true that the delegates were instructed for Champ Clark, but this grew out of a sentiment, or a question of State pride, rather than his real fitness for the nomination. Mr. Wilson's friends seeing the drift of the tide made no effort to secure the vote of the State.

Thus Kentucky delegates voted for Mr. Clark, as long as his name was before the convention. But the result of the convention showed that the sentiment of the Democrats of the country was with the New Jersey Governor.

The News has never faltered in its support of Governor Wilson. From the time his name came before the people we have believed he would be their choice for President. Everything now points to Democratic success, and we believe Woodrow Wilson will be the next President. We urge the Democrats of this county to organize and carry the county for him this fall by a big majority.

GET ACQUAINTED WITH OUR BANKS.

Attention is called to the splendid showing of the statement of the Bank of Hardinsburg & Trust Company made June 29. It is of supreme importance to every man who has funds to invest, to notice the condition of this bank. Especially people of moderate means and guardians of belongings to others should study it.

While mentioning this company we also call your constant attention to the ads of the Breckenridge Bank, The Farmers Bank and The First State Bank. Never fail to read what they have to say. They remind you and convince you that it pays best in the long run to be conservative and not take uncalled for chances on the safety of your investments in strange banks. You can get acquainted with the banks of our county through our columns. Watch every week what they have to say and they will advise you frankly and honestly about money matters.

The young men who got up the Breckenridge County Fair catalogue made a great mistake when they let the work go away from home, but the greatest mistake they have ever made in the history of the fair was leading the book off with a whiskey ad made as conspicuous as possible by being attached separately. May they live and learn as we older men have, that whiskey advertising is as bad as voting for saloons. The ad reaches the men directly, tempts them and arouses their desire for the dangerous stuff.

The funeral of Miss Harriet Quimby, the aviator, was held at twilight in New York on the Fourth of July. Miss Quimby was dramatic critic of Leslie's Weekly. At the close of the service, the staff and office force of this magazine filed past the casket, each dropping a rose. The young woman was a martyr to the great science of human flight. Harriet Quimby was a vivid, eager, striking good looking young woman which added to the interest of her career.

If you don't get your paper lay it to the post office department. They say to publishers send us a list of your unpaid subscriptions. There is extra postage on unpaid subscriptions. If you fail to pay it you are fined and lose your mailing privileges. This is pretty hard on the publisher as well as the subscriber who just wants a little time. We can't take any such risks with Uncle Sam so off they go.

Senator Joseph M. Dixon, of Montana, Theodore Roosevelt's Campaign Manager, has sent out a call to the people who are in sympathy with the National Progressive Movement to send delegates to a convention to meet in Chicago August 5. The call is signed by representatives from forty states. Leslie Coombs is the member from Kentucky.

Dynamiting the ground has been proven by Jess Weatherholt to be the best way for raising potatoes. He raised 30 bushels on ground 80x20 feet—and the potatoes are the best he has ever seen grow in this section. Ask Mr. Weatherholt to tell you the facts and results of his dynamiting work.

E. W. Smith, of Hites Run, says he has apples as well as Joe Smart, and proved it Saturday by bringing us a big sack of the fine transparent Early Harvest kind. We are enjoying them and appreciate his bringing them to us. Thanks to Mr. Smith.

"The Successful Railroad Man" is the title of an attractive leaflet just issued by the Traffic Department of the Henderson Route. Its keynote is courtesy, which the Company is anxious to have observed all along the road by the men in its employ.

Don't get too active about the post office. Let us go to work and get our man in first. There is really more in getting a good man into an office than getting in yourself. It is the fellow with an office who carries the burdens.

We welcome the Louisville Evening Post into the Democratic ranks. We regard Mr. Knott as one of the best Democrats in the State. He is not always in line with the party bosses but is in line with the people.

Senator O'Gorman was at Seagirt Friday bearing an Olive Branch from Tammany to Gov. Wilson with the assurance that he would carry New York state by a hundred and fifty thousand over Taft.

Mr. Bryan had to cut out registering at a hotel and take a room without a telephone that he might have a little quietude for one night in Chicago. William J. ought to come down to Tar Springs.

More trouble in President Taft's cabinet. It is given out that General Wickersham's resignation will be asked for within the next few days. He hasn't been running things to suit Wall Street.

Congressman Ben Johnson is a member of the Notification Committee from Kentucky. He will go to Seagirt, N. J. on August 7, to notify Woodrow Wilson of his nomination.

You had better get your license now before you go hunting. The license is $1 and the penalty not less than $50 nor more than $200.

We want to say to the prospective applicants for post offices that you need not apply if you are over sixty.

A big Wilson and Marshall ratification meeting is to be held in Lexington some time in August.

The only hope the Republicans have is that the Democrats always win in July and August.

If the Republicans want to be progressive, they should support Woodrow Wilson.

The sunshine always comes—just be patient no matter how hard and long it rains.

All eyes are on Seagirt. Oyster Bay is almost forgotten.

Mr. Wilson has already had an applicant for a post office.

MRS. NANCY NEWMAN

Dies At Her Home In Hancock County—Suffers Many Afflictions And Sorrows—Was Well Known Over The County.

Hawesville, Ky., July 6.—The funeral of Mrs. Nancy Newman, aged 87, took place from her home in the country Thursday afternoon and her remains were buried in the family burying ground of her step-father, Capt. John Sterrett, who was the first sheriff and one of the first representatives in the legislature.

She was an excellent good woman, a member of the Baptist church, patient and long suffering, and if one ever received reward in heaven because of the truth behind the quotation, "Whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth," she certainly did, for to her came more afflictions than come to most persons since the day of Job. One of her youngest children was scalded to death in a tanning vat, soon after another was burned to death on the home hearth, another son enlisted in the southern army and was murdered on the streets of a southern city. Three years ago another son was killed by a falling plank at Stanley, Ky. Another son was killed on the streets of Hawesville. A son-in-law was burned to death in a forest fire in this county near his home a few years ago, and his son lost his life in a steam boat disaster on the Mis-issippi a few years after. Her husband died after a lingering illness, about ten years ago.

Soon after the doctors pronounced her own affliction to be cancer and she has been gradually weakening through the ravages of that disease ever since until two weeks ago, when she fell and broke her hip, since which time she sank rapidly until the end came on Wednesday. She was a Miss Haynes, born in Ohio county, Ky., and is the last of a large number of brothers and sisters. She is survived by Mrs. Sarah Bennett, of Henderson; Mrs. Frank Bink, of Owensboro; Mrs. Eliza Bruce, and George Newman, of Hawesville, who resided with her, and Capt. Henry Newman, of Birmingham.

WHITE HOUSE

Is To Be The Scene Of The Big Function Which Marks Formal Notification Of President Taft That He Has Been Nominated.

Beverly, Mass., July 6.—President Taft will receive the formal notification that he is the nominee of the Republican party at the White House, in Washington, August 1. He believes that Washington is the most convenient place for the committee to wait upon him and desires to entertain them in the White House. It had been proposed to hold the ceremony here.

The Baptist Revival.

Sunday was a great day in the meeting in progress at the Baptist church.

Those old Daguerreotypes of grandfather, grandmother, and Aunt Mary, and then the quaint pictures of father and mother taken just after the war—money couldn't buy them from you.

Are you forgetful of the fact that future generations would cherish just such pictures of you?

C. G. BRABANDT

The interest continues to grow and the revival spirit is increasing in power. Bro. Lewis preached two strong sermons Sunday. In the morning his Subject was, "The Holy Spirit" and at night, "The Sin Against the Holy Ghost." At the morning service the interest was so deep that some were in tears and the audible shout of praise was heard. At night the building was crowded to its utmost seating capacity, and a holy hush pervaded the congregation as Bro. Lewis spoke on the unpardonable sin. At the close of the service several came forward for prayer and one strong man was converted.

There have been thirty additions to the church to date and many are interested. The meeting has been in progress two weeks, but the interest is so manifest that Bro. Lewis and the Pastor felt that the meeting should continue longer. It has been several years since a far reaching revival has been experienced here, not perhaps since Bro. Pendleton Jones was here during Bro. Vine's pastorate. The meeting now in progress gives promise of resulting in a general and far reaching revival. There is a field here of great promise and of limitless opportunity for a great meeting. Over fifty per cent of the population of Cloverport are not connected with the four religious organizations that maintain services and a great part of these are unconverted. Oh, that God's people were alive to their opportunities and felt more keenly a sense of their responsibility. Oh, that God's people had eyes to see that they might look upon the field white unto the harvest. "Enlarge the place of thy tent, stretch forth the curtains of thy habitations, spare not, lengthen thy cords, and strengthen thy stakes; for thou shalt break forth on the right hand and on the left. For the Lord hath called thee as a woman forsaken and grieved in spirit, and a wife of youth, when thou wast refused, saith the Lord. For a small moment I have forsaken thee; but with great mercies will I gather thee. In a little wrath I hid my face from thee for a moment; but with everlasting kindness will I have mercy on thee, saith the Lord thy Redeemer."

MOOLEYVILLE.

Lee Egart, carpenter on the Tarascon, came home to spend a few days with his mother, Mrs. Edwin Egart. Mrs. Mary Elder, of Louisville, is visiting relatives at this place. W. R. Elder spent a few days this week with his brother, Henry Elder.

HOW WILSON WON

a vote of 579 for Parker to 510 for Bryan.

The defeat of Colonel Bryan for the temporary chairmanship was a momentous event for the Democratic party, and the leaders and the rank and file of the party knew it when it occurred. It was no longer a contest between candidates. It was war to the bitter end between Mr. Bryan and Mr. Murphy. Both had accepted the game of battle, and there would be no compromise.

The change in the party alignment brought many surprises to the layman, among them the swinging of Theodore A. Bell of California, temporary chairman of the Denver convention of four years ago to the Murphy forces. Mr. Bell led the opposition to Bryan, and did not hesitate in demanding that the Nebraska, to whom the Democracy had given three opportunities, now step aside and permit other leaders to shape the course of the party.

After the vote ex-Governor Patterson of Ohio expressed the feelings of many of the old leaders who had that day voted against Bryan, when he said:

"The defeat of Mr. Bryan, necessary though it was, was an occasion for tears rather than cheers. He has been and is a great man, but he has had his opportunity, and must now step aside." That Tuesday night following the defeat of Mr. Bryan will ever remain a memorable one in Democratic history. The great question of that night was: "Is it to be a bolt?"

Among the leaders for the various candidates, the Clark forces instantly realized that if the speaker was to win he must do so in spite of Mr. Bryan's opposition. The Wilson leaders knew they would have Bryan's support, but would it suffice? Leaders of other candidates were wondering what form the alignment would take when the deadlock between Clark and Wilson should be broken.

Mr. Bryan was named as a member of the committee on resolutions, but refused the chairmanship of the committee. The reason for his refusal was explained on Thursday night, when, after the permanent organization had been completed and Ollie James of Kentucky had delivered his address as permanent chairman, Mr. Bryan stepped to the front of the speaker's platform and asked unanimous consent for the presentation of a resolution. But the convention was not willing to take Mr. Bryan on faith, and cries of "No! No!" "Read it! Read the resolution!" arose from all parts of the great hall.

Mr. Bryan, raising his voice so that it filled the hall, and could be heard despite the uproar, read:

"Resolved, That we hereby declare ourselves against the nomination of any candidate representing or under the domination of J. Pierpont Morgan, Thomas F. Ryan, August Belmont or any other member of the favored or privilege seeking class. Also that we ask any delegate representing such an interest be requested to withdraw."

It is impossible for words to express the uproar and turmoil of the moment. Cheers, groans, catcalls, hisses were mingled in one deafening roar.

Mr. Bryan had again put the opposition on the defensive.

"Mr. Chairman! Mr. Chairman!" came the demands for recognition from all portions of the hall, and Congressman Brice of Virginia was recognized and invited to the speaker's stand.

When a semblance of order had been restored, and before Mr. Brice had had an opportunity to speak, Mr. Bryan announced that if New York and Virginia would take a poll of their delegations, and if a majority of the delegates of each state voted in

For Women Who Care

Of course you use an antiseptic in your family and in the care of your own person, and you want the best.

Instead of what you have been using such as liquid or tablet antiseptics or peroxide, won't you please try Paxtine, a concentrated antiseptic powder to be dissolved in water as needed.

Paxtine is more economical, more cleansing, more germicidal and more healing than anything you ever used.

In the toilet—to cleanse and whiten the teeth, remove tartar and prevent decay. To disinfect the mouth, destroy disease germs, and purify the breath. To keep artificial teeth and bridgework clean and odorless. To remove nicotine from the teeth and purify the breath after smoking. To eradicate perspiration odors by sponge bathing.

As a medicinal agent for local treatment of feminine ills where pelvic catarrh, inflammation and ulceration exist, nothing equals hot douches of Paxtine. For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co. has been regularly advising their patients to use it because of its extraordinary cleansing, healing and germicidal power. For this purpose alone Paxtine's worth its weight in gold. Also for nasal catarrh, sore throat, inflamed eyes, cuts and wounds. All druggists, 25 and 50 cents a box. Trial box and testimony of 31 women free on request.

THE PAXTON TOILET CO., BOSTON, MASS.

favor of Belmont and Ryan, he would withdraw the last paragraph of his resolution.

"No! No!" came the cries from the delegations of the two states.

Raising his voice so as to be heard above the uproar, Mr. Bryan stated that two delegates from Virginia had asked that such part of the last paragraph as applied to Virginia be withdrawn, and he would do so, and if one delegate from New York would make the same request for that state he would withdraw the last paragraph entirely.

Again came the cries of "No! No!" accompanied by groans and hisses.

The convention at that moment was against Mr. Bryan and his resolution as originally read would have been voted down, had the opportunity been offered.

Brice succeeded in getting attention and in the name of the Virginia delegation offered defiance to the Commoner, stating that no member of the the Virginia delegation had asked for the withdrawal of any part of the resolution; that Virginia was entirely competent to handle its internal affairs, and would recognize no right of Mr. Bryan to meddle with her.

New York's policy of silence, a policy which was maintained throughout the convention, remained unbroken throughout the turmoil, which lasted for an hour.

Before the vote which had been asked for on the suspension of the rules could be taken Mr. Bryan withdrew the last paragraph of his resolution, and the resolution was then passed practically unanimously.

The dramatic incident, probably the most dramatic that has ever occurred in a national political convention, had but served to widen the breach between the Bryan and Murphy forces, if that were possible.

From the first to the ninth ballot New York voted "90 for Harmon," and Nebraska voted almost solidly for Clark, as instructed by the state convention. Mr. Bryan, as a Nebraska delegate-at-large, following the instructions up to and including the fourteenth ballot. On the tenth ballot New York switched to "90 for Clark," causing a Clark demonstration. The balloting continued without serious interruption until Nebraska was called on the fifteenth, when Mr. Bryan arose from his seat on the floor and asked permission to explain a change in his vote.

"No! No!" came the cries, and Congressman Sulzer of New York, who was presiding, ruled the Nebraskan out of order, and instructed him to vote without an explanation.

"Despite my instructions, I will not vote for Clark so long as New York votes for him," yelled Mr. Bryan, and pandemonium was again loose in the great convention.

The unanimous consent which Mr. Bryan had asked was finally granted at the request of Senator Stone of Missouri.

From the platform Mr. Bryan read a typewritten statement, saying he did so for the reason that he did not want

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM SUMMARIZED

Following is a summary of the more important planks in the platform adopted by the Democratic national convention:

Declares for a tariff for revenue only; denounces the high Republican tariff as the principal cause of the unequal distribution of wealth. Favors immediate downward revision of present duties, especially upon necessities of life. Also favors gradual reduction so as not to interfere with or destroy legitimate industries.

Takes issue with the Republican platform as to the high cost of living, contending it is largely due to high tariff laws.

Favors vigorous enforcement of the criminal features of the anti-trust law, demands such additional legislation as may be necessary to crush private monopoly.

Urges people to support proposed constitutional amendments, providing for an income tax and election of United States senators by direct vote of the people.

Declares for presidential preference primaries.

Pledges party to enactment of law prohibiting campaign contributions by corporations and unreasonable campaign contributions by individuals.

Favors single presidential term and making president ineligible to reelection.

Favors efficient supervision and rate regulation of railroads, express companies, telegraph and telephone lines and a valuation of these companies by the interstate commerce commission.

In connection with a demand for such a revision of the banking laws as will give temporary relief in case of financial distress there is a denunciation of the Aldrich bill prepared by the monetary commission.

Recommends investigation of agricultural credit societies in Europe to ascertain whether a system of rural credits may be devised suitable to conditions in the United States.

Pledges party to enactment of legislation to prevent devastation of lower Mississippi valley by floods.

Favors national aid regarding post roads.

Repeats party's declaration of the platform of 1903 as to rights of labor and pledges the party to an employees' compensation law.

Declares the unnecessary withdrawal of public lands tends to retard development and bring reproach upon policy of conservation; declares for immediate action to make available Alaskan coal lands.

Favors encouragement of agriculture and legislation to suppress gambling in agricultural products.

Believes in fostering growth of a merchant marine.

Reaffirms previous declarations regarding pure food and public health.

Favors reorganization of the civil service

Recommends law reform legislation.

Reaffirms position against "policy of imperialism and colonial exploitation" in Philippines.

Demands for Alaska full enjoyment of rights and privileges of territorial form of government.

Favors parcels post and extension of rural delivery.

Stanchfield could not conclude the sentence. It was drowned in a burst of cheers.

While the speaker delivered this attack Bryan sat quietly in his seat. He watched Stanchfield closely and occasionally smiled.

"I desire to say again, the vote of New York is vital to success," continued Mr. Stanchfield. "And no man can go forth from this convention stigmatized and branded with the mark of Bryanism upon him and come within half a million votes of success."

"When Mr. Bryan makes the statement that these delegates from New York are under the influence of Morgan and Ryan and Belmont, the 'plutocrats' of this convention, he omits one name. Outside of the three he has named, the richest and most powerful plutocrat on the floor is the gentleman from Nebraska himself."

All day the delegates were in fighting mood, and once there was a genuine riot of which Bryan was the center.

He resented as an insult the action of some Clark enthusiasts in placing in front of the Commoner a banner bearing words of praise of Clark attributed to Bryan in 1910. Missouri, New Jersey and Nebraska delegates "mixed it up," and even some press correspondents took a hand. Then the police separated the belligerents and later A. M. Dockery and Dave Francis sent apologies to Bryan, disclaiming for the Missouri delegation any connection with the banner.

Tired and out of temper, the delegates assembled at noon Tuesday, determined to wind up matters quickly if possible. On the first ballot of the day, the forty-third, Illinois switched over to Wilson and on the succeeding ballots the vote of the governor rapidly increased. After the forty-fifth Senator Bankhead arose and withdrew the name of Oscar Underwood. "That means Wilson," said the managers for Clark. Then Governor Foss' name also was withdrawn, whereupon Senator Stone and ex-Governor Francis gave up hope for the speaker. They formally released the Clark delegates from their pledges, and it seemed all over but the shouting. But the Tammany bunch and some others were still stubborn and Fitzgerald of New York objected to the unanimous nomination of Wilson by acclamation. So further calling of the roll was necessary.

Every strategy known in political generalship was tried to stampede the convention for the different candidates. No convention in the history of this country has seen such wild demonstrations as have been witnessed in this one at Baltimore.

While Tuesday's dramatic incident, arising over the selection of a temporary chairman, was the cause of almost unprecedented turmoil, there was nothing even bordering on a demonstration. It was just plain fight—not enthusiasm.

Even the speech of Temporary Chairman Parker did not arouse the response so characteristic of Democratic conventions of the past, and the convention showed nothing but a fighting mood until after the incident of the Bryan resolution of Thursday evening and the beginning of the nominating speeches.

The Clark and Wilson forces struggled valiantly to make the greater showing for their respective candidates. While Clark was showing the greater voting strength, the lung power of the thousands of college boys in the Wilson following gave to him an advantage so far as continued effort at noise-making was concerned.

The terrific din of Thursday night which was started by the Clark hosts when Senator Reed named the speaker for the Democratic nomination continued unabated for one and a quarter hours, and in it there seemed to be employed every noise-making implement ever invented.

Great as was the Clark demonstration, however, it did not compare in noise with that led by the Princeton boys when Judge Westcott named the New Jersey executive. For more than one and a half hours the din continued, the lusty youngsters seeming to glory in their ability to keep it up.

Of all of the demonstrations of Thursday night the most amusing was that started by a man in the press stand for Governor Baldwin, when the name of the Connecticut executive was entered in the race for the nomination. Realizing that the fourteen delegates from Connecticut could not successfully compete with the stronger following of the other candidates, the men in the press stand volunteered a noisy assistance which they continued for more than twenty minutes and which subsided only when the chair threatened to clear the press stand if the reporters did not stop. The many star writers in the press stand, men whose reputations for genius are world-wide, led the Baldwin demonstration, and introduced into it all the elements of a first-class vaudeville show or a Gridiron club dinner. It was the one really spontaneous and amusing demonstration of the long week.

"Alfalfa Bill" Murry, a Wilson delegate from Oklahoma, was the acknowledged leader of the Wilson "demonstrators" among the delegations. Any time "Alfalfa Bill" wanted to start something he would raise his tousled head, wave his long arms at the north gallery where a group of Princeton boys had seats, and let out a wild west yell. It never failed to produce results. It was such a move that started the demonstration on Saturday night when on the twenty-fourth ballot the New Jersey executive passed the four hundred mark.

Of the many visitors to the convention none created more interest than Mrs. William H. Taft, when on Thursday afternoon and evening she occupied a seat in the box immediately back of the speaker's stand. She was the guest of Mrs. Norman H. Mack.

Mrs. Taft entered the convention hall just before Temporary Chairman Parker surrendered the gavel to Permanent Chairman James. The crowd watched the first lady of the land with eager interest as she listened to the denunciation of her distinguished husband and the arraignment of his administration contained in the speech of the permanent chairman. But if they expected any evidences of displeasure on the part of Mrs. Taft they were disappointed, for she only smiled at each telling point, and at the conclusion of the address applauded vigorously. She did not applaud, or even smile, when Mr. James turned his attention from President Taft to Colonel Roosevelt and included the latter in his arraignment and among those to whom the Democratic party was unalterably opposed.

As Mrs. Taft entered the box with Mrs. Mack a gray-haired southerner near enough to distinguish her started an ovation for her. When pleasantly chided for his actions by a younger acquaintance he replied: "The first lady of this land, or any lady, is entitled to the courtesy of every gentleman, and I would have you know, sir, that the Democrats of the South are gentlemen."

Mr. Bryan and his followers made political capital from the appearance in the convention of Ryan and Belmont. They acted as a red rag to a bull on the Bryan cohorts. Belmont occupied a conspicuous place in the first row in the box immediately back of the speaker, while Ryan, though occupying a seat with the Virginia delegation ordinarily, was on the speaker's stand a number of times. Ryan wore a plain business suit, and so far as clothing was concerned could not have been distinguished from any of the other delegates. Belmont attended most of the evening sessions dressed in evening clothes, the broad expanse of his white shirt front making him easily distinguishable from others around him.

Bryan, when not on the stand, occupied a seat with the Nebraska delegation immediately in front of the speaker and facing Belmont. During the sessions as the delegates would flock around the Nebraskan seeking his advice or counsel, or upbraiding him for his opposition, he would point his finger at Belmont to emphasize his points, and his action would nearly always result in an uproar.

On Thursday night, at the close of Senator Reed's speech naming Clark, the speaker's beautiful daughter stepped onto a chair in the gallery, and with a big American flag wrapped around her, and another in each hand, led the cheering for her father. She was the only woman who figured conspicuously in the demonstrations.

Baltimore is by no means a convention city. It is a city of homes with limited hotel accommodations, which made the housing of the big crowd a hard problem to solve. This shortage of hotel accommodations was met by appealing to the people of the city to open their homes to the visitors. The committee in charge established a room-renting agency where those willing to accommodate the Democratic guests could list their rooms. The following is a sample of what was offered:

"I should like you to rent one of my rooms for me," said an amiable-looking elderly lady in weeds. "It is a large room and it is furnished with antique mahogany furniture. The bureau belonged to my great grandmother. It's a Sheraton, and you know how few Sheraton bureaus there are left in this country. If you could just

CHAPTER XXIV.

The Train Butcher.

Mallory was dragging out a miserable existence with a companion who was neither maid, wife, nor widow and to whom he was neither bachelor, husband, nor reticent.

They were suffering brain-fag from their one topic of conversation, and heart-fag from rapture deferred. Marjorie had pretended to take a nap and Mallory had pretended that he would leave her for her own sake. Their contradictory chains were beginning to gall.

Mallory sat in the smoking room, and threw aside a half-finished cigar. Life was indeed nauseous when tobacco turned rank on his lips. He watched without interest the stupendous scenery whirling past the train; granite ravines, infernal grotesques of architecture and diablerie, the Giant's Teapot, the Devil's Slide, the Pulpit Rock, the Hanging Rock, splashes of mineral color, as if titanic paint pots had been spilled or flung against the cliffs, sudden hushes of green pine-woods, dreary graveyards of sand and sagebrush, mountain streams in frothing panics.

His jaded soul could not respond to any of these thrillers, the dime-novels and melodramatic third-acts of nature. But with the arrival of a train-boy, who had got on at Evanston with a batch of Salt Lake City newspapers, he woke a little.

The other men came trooping round, like sheep at a herd-boy's whistle or chickens when a pan of grain is brought into the yard. The train "butcher" had a nasal sing-song, but his strain might have been the "Red Piper's" tune emptying Hamelin of its grown-ups. The charms of flirtation, matrimonial bliss and feminine beauty were forgotten, and the males flocked to the delights of stock-market reports, political or racing or dramatic or sporting or criminal news. Even Ashton braved the eyes of his fellow men for the luxury of burying his nose in a fresh paper.

"Papers, gents? Yes? No?" the train butcher chanted. "Salt Lake papers, Ogden papers, all the latest papers, comic papers, magazines, periodicals."

"Here, boy," said Ashton, snapping his fingers, "what's the latest New York paper?"

"Last Saturday's."

"Six days old? I read that before I left New York. Well, give me that Salt Lake paper. It has yesterday's stock market, I suppose."

"Yes, sir." He passed over the sheet and made change, without abating his monody: "Papers, gents. Yes? No? Salt Lake pa—"

"Whash latest from Chicago?" said Wellington.

"Monday's."

"I read that before—that breakfast began," laughed Little Jimmie. "Well, give me Salt Lake Bazzoo. It has baseball news, I s'pose."

"Yes, sir," the butcher answered, and his tone grew reverent as he said: "The Giants won. Mr. Mattyson was pitching. Papers, gents, all the latest papers, magazines, periodicals."

Wedgewood extended a languid hand: "What's the latest issue of the London Times?"

"Never heard of it."

Wedgewood almost fainted, and returned to his Baedeker of the United States.

Dr. Temple summoned the lad: "I don't suppose you have the Ypsilanti angle?"

The butcher regarded him with pity, and sniffed: "I carry newspapers, not poultry."

"Well, give me the—" he saw a pink weekly of rather picturesque appearance, and the adventure attracted him. "I'll take this—also the Outlook." He folded the pink within the green, and entered into a new and startling world—a sort of journalistic slumming tour.

"Give me any old thing," said Mallory, and flung open an Ogden journal till he found the sporting page, where his eyes brightened. "By Jove, a ten-inning game! Matthewson in the 'box!'"

"Life is most intellectual pitch-he world," said Little Jimmie, when everybody disappeared behind paper ramparts, while the butcher lingered to explain to the porter details of the great event.

About this time, Marjorie, tired of pretence at slumber, strolled into observation car, glancing into the smoking room, where she saw nothing newsworthy. Then Mrs. Wellington saw her, and smiled: "Come in and make yourself at home."

"Thanks," said Marjorie, bashfully, "was looking for my—my—"

"My dog."

"How is he this morning?"

"My dog?"

"Your husband."

"Oh, he's as well as could be expected."

"Where did you get that love of a" waist?" Mrs. Wellington laughed.

"Mrs. Temple lent it to me. Isn't it sweet?"

"Exquisite! The latest Ypsilanti mode."

Marjorie, suffering almost more acutely from being badly frocked than from being duped in her matrimonial hopes, threw herself on Mrs. Wellington's mercy.

"I'm so unhappy in this. Couldn't you lend me or sell me something a little smarter?"

"I'd love to, my dear," said Mrs. Wellington, "but I left home on short notice myself. I shall need all my divorce tressou in Reno. Otherwise—I—but here's your husband. You two ought to have some place to spoon. I'll leave you this whole room."

And she swept out, nodding to Mallory, who had divined Marjorie's presence, and felt the need of being near her, though he also felt the need of finishing the story of the great ball game. Husbandlike, he felt that he was conferring sufficient courtesy in throwing a casual smile across the top of the paper.

Marjorie studied his motley garb, and her own, and groaned:

"We're a sweet looking pair, aren't we?"

"Mr. and Miss Fit," said Mallory, from behind the paper.

"Oh, Harry, has your love grown cold?" she pleaded.

"Marjorie, how can you think such a thing?" still from behind the paper.

"Well, Mrs. Wellington said we ought to have some place to spoon, and she went away and left us, and—there you stand—and—"

This pierced even the baseball news, and he threw his arms around her with glow of devotion.

She snuggled closer, and cooed:

"Aren't we having a nice long engagement? We've traveled a million miles, and the preacher isn't in sight yet. What have you been reading—wedding announcements?"

"No—I was reading about the most wonderful exhibition. Mattie was in the box—and in perfect form."

"Mattie?" Marjorie gasped uneasily.

"Mattie!" he raved, "and in perfect form."

And now the hidden serpent of jealousy, which promised to enliven their future, lifted its head for the first time, and Mallory caught his first glimpse of an unsuspected member of their household. Marjorie demanded with an ominous chill:

"And who's Mattie? Some former sweetheart of yours?"

"My dear," laughed Mallory.

But Marjorie was up and away, with apt temper: "So Mattie was in the box, was she? What is it to you, where she sits? You dare to read about her and rave over her perfect form, while you neglect your wife—or your—oh, what am I, anyway?"

Mallory stared at her in amazement. He was beginning to learn what ignorant heathen women are concerning so many of the gods and demi-gods of mankind. Then, with a tenderness he might not always show, he threw the paper down and took her in his arms: "You poor child. Mattie is a man—a pitcher—and you're the only woman I ever loved—and you are able to be my wife any minute."

The explanation was sufficient, and she crawled into the shelter of his arm with little noises that served for apology, forgiveness and reconciliation. Then he made the mistake of mentioning the sickening topic of deferred hope:

"A minister's sure to get on at the next stop—or the next."

Marjorie's nerves were frayed by too much enduring, and it took only a word to set them jangling: "If you say minister to me again, I'll scream." Then she tried to control herself with a polite: "Where is the next stop?"

"Ogden."

"Where's that? On the map?"

"Well, it's in Utah."

"Utah!" she groaned. "They marry by wholesale there, and we can't even get a sample."

Homes Wanted For Little Children.

A recent advertisement in the county papers succeeded in finding homes for a large number of children and a great many applications are coming in now for the older children that we cannot fill.

We have 60 children under 8 years of age; we have 16 boy babies, 8 months and younger, splendid little fellows, any one of whom you might expect some day to be President of the United States, and we have the sweetest and prettiest lot of boys and girls from 2 to 8 years to be found anywhere.

These children need homes; especially do they need the pure country air and good food for the summer months. Won't you take an interest in these children and allow us to place one of them in your home, on trial at least? It is very hard to have these children cramped up in an institution during the summer months.

We trust our appeal will result in a large number of applications coming in for the little babies, as well as the boys and girls from 2 to 8 years of age.

Thanking you in advance, I remain, Yours very respectfully,

Geo. L. Sehon.

State Supt. of Kentucky Children's Home Society.

WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS GRANTED

On Behalf Of J. G. Cox, Charged With The Murder Of Daniel Dowell, Near Brandenburg, Kentucky.

Hardinsburg, July 8. (Special)—On Tuesday, the second of July, 1912 at Brandenburg, at examining trial of J. G. Cox, charged with the murder of Daniel Dowell on the 27th day of June, 1912, near Brandenburg, bail was denied Cox. Application was made to Judge Chief at Louisville on the sixth, inst., for a writ of habeas corpus, which was granted. This means that Judge Chief will hear testimony in order to determine whether Cox is entitled to bail, and the hearing is set for the 12th, inst., at Elizabethtown, Ky.

Public sentiment was rampant against Cox, but the probabilities are, when the truth of the killing and the reason therefor are known, that there will be a decided shifting of feeling on the part of the public. Claude Mercer of this bar is representing Mr. Cox.

The Marlin Model 20 REPEATING RIFLE

You can buy no better gun for target work and all small game up to 200 yards.

Without change of mechanism it handles .22 short, long or long-rifle cartridges perfectly. The deep Ballard rifling develops maximum power and accuracy and adds years to the life of rifle.

The solid top is protection from defective cartridges—prevents powder and gas from being blown back. The side ejection never lets ejected shells spoil your head and allows quick, accurate repeat shots. With simple take-down construction, removable action parts,—least parts of any .22—is the quickest and easiest to clean. A great vacation rifle. Ask any gun dealer.

The 136 page Marlin catalog will help you decide what rifle best suits your individual desires. Send 3 stamps for it today.

The burial took place in Taul's grave-yard.

The Irvington Barbecue

The Irvington Improvement League was not kept in the hole financially on the Fourth, despite of the heavy rain the night before and that morning. Enough money was made to meet expenses with a surplus amount. As the young ladies in the contest did not accept the cash prizes, the League is most grateful to them and was thus enabled to swim ashore.
